Born out of friendship, a passion for wine, and a common love of Northern California.

Stephen Vincent was created in 2001 as a passion project of three friends. All wine industry veterans, the founders included La Crema winemaker Robert Goyette, prominent vineyard owner Hossein Namdar and Robert Mondavi executive Stephen Vincent Situm, who became the brand's namesake. Their mission was clear – to create a portfolio of wines that showcase the best of Northern California, at price points that are accessible to everyone.

With their combined expertise, the trio found rapid success with their latest venture. Through the burgeoning community of winegrowers and producers in Sonoma County in the early 2000s, they began working with Dennis Carroll at his new bottling facility. Dennis went on to create Wine Hooligans with the vision of bringing artisan wines made by passionate winemakers to market. This was a perfect match for Stephen Vincent and its founders—once again bringing friends together through the brand.

Adam LaZarre

The wines of Stephen Vincent are sourced from some of the most prestigious regions in Northern California. Under the direction of award-winning winemaker Adam LaZarre, we partner with winegrowers dedicated to producing fantastic fruit vintage after vintage.

North Coast Sourcing

Our Pinot Noir and Chardonnay are sourced from acclaimed areas throughout the North Coast AVA. This region is known for success with these cool climate varieties, due to the maritime influence of the Pacific ocean. The Russian River Valley benefits from the cooling coastal fogs that come up through the Petaluma Gap, while Mendocino is one of the most Northern of the CA AVAs it has the benefit of two distinct climate zones thanks to the Mendocino coastal mountains of the Pacific Coast Range.

The 2018 Crimson Red Blend comes primarily from the Mendocino AVA. Within this large winegrowing regions, our vineyard sources benefit from warm microclimates that contribute to the production of bold, robust red varieties.
